

Frequently Asked Questions about Education in MERIT

Your education is important to us! Click the links below for answers to common questions about education verification.

About Education Verification

- How does education verification help me?
- Which degrees are recognized and may earn me an education award?
- What is an ECE major?
- What is an ECE certificate or credential?

Five Easy Steps

- How do I submit my education for verification?
- What documentation is required to verify my education?
- Are unofficial transcripts accepted?
- Where do I send my documentation?

What if I earned my degree or diploma in another country?

If you earned your degree, diploma, or education outside of the United States, you will need to submit a letter or statement of equivalency for your education to be verified.

For more information about processing degrees, diplomas, and education earned outside of the United States, including how to find organizations that provide degree evaluation and translation services, click here.

About Education Awards

- What education awards are available?
- When can I receive an education award?
- What is movement?